Behavioral Health Provider Credentials

For online users, terms are hyperlinked.

APRN: Advanced Practice Registered Nurse. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

Case Manager: A health care professional, usually a nurse or social worker, who works with patients, providers, and health insurance plans to coordinate the continuity and cost-effectiveness of services. APA Dictionary of Psychology

Counselor: An individual professionally trained in counseling, psychology, social work, or nursing who specializes in one or more counseling areas, such as vocational, rehabilitation, educational, substance abuse, marriage, relationship, or family counseling. A counselor provides professional evaluations, information, and suggestions designed to enhance the client's ability to solve problems, make decisions, and effect desired changes in attitude and behavior. APA Dictionary of Psychology

DO: Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

FNP: Family Nurse Practitioner. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

LCSW: Licensed Clinical Social Worker. SocialWorkGuide.org

MD: Doctor of Medicine Profession. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

MPA: Master of Public Administration. Merriam-Webster Dictionary

NP: Nurse Practitioner. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

PA: Physician Assistant. National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

PA-C: Physician Assistant (certified). National Library of Medicine, MedlinePlus, Medical Encyclopedia

Paraprofessional: A trained but not professionally credentialed worker who assists in the treatment of patients in both hospital and community settings. APA Dictionary of Psychology

PhD: Doctor of Philosophy. Merriam-Webster Dictionary

Psychiatrist: A physician who specializes in the diagnosis, treatment, prevention, and study of mental, behavioral, and personality disorders. In the United States, education for this profession consists of 4 years of premedical training in college; a 4-year course in medical school, the final 2 years of which are spent in clerkships studying with physicians in at least five specialty areas; and a 4-year residency in a hospital or agency approved by the American Medical Association. The 1st year of the residency is spent as a hospital intern, and the final 3 in psychiatric residency, learning diagnosis and the use of psychiatric medications and other treatment modes. After completing residency, most psychiatrists take a voluntary examination for certification by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. APA Dictionary of Psychology

Psychologist: An individual who is professionally trained in one or more branches or subfields of psychology. Training is obtained at a university or a school of professional psychology, leading to a doctoral degree in philosophy (PhD), psychology (PsyD), or education (EdD). Psychologists work in a variety of settings... The professional activities of psychologists are also varied but can include psychological counseling, involvement in other mental health care services, educational testing and assessment, research, teaching, and business and organizational consulting. Formal certification or professional licensing is required to practice independently in many of these settings and activities. APA Dictionary of Psychology

Social Work(er): A profession devoted to helping individuals, families, and other groups deal with personal and practical problems within the larger community context of which they are a part. Social workers address a variety of problems, including those related to mental or physical disorder, poverty, living arrangements, child care, occupational stress, and unemployment, especially through involvement in the provision of social services. APA Dictionary of Psychology

Therapist: An individual who has been trained in and practices one or more types of therapy to treat mental or physical disorders or diseases. In the context of mental health, the term is often used synonymously with psychotherapist. APA Dictionary of Psychology

All groups are run by an LDS female licensed therapist or behavioral specialist who specializes in teen girl mental health challenges. Groups meet weekly to train participants in coping strategies, understanding and controlling emotions and negative thoughts, learning about relationships and how to navigate them, understanding brain chemistry and how to change it in positive ways and applying this to everyday life. The therapist or specialist helps participants set specific recovery goals and accomplish them.

In person and online. See website for meeting times and information.

1. Top 5 Ways You Can Reduce the Risk

Keeping your kids safe can feel overwhelming, but this course is a great introduction to the top 5 things that make a difference in reducing the risk of sexual abuse and how to get started. Learn how to assess risky situations, set and respect healthy boundaries, keep communication lines open, discuss sexual development, and model and develop emotional well-being.

2. Teaching Your Child
Consent

Consent is about so much more than sex. Practicing and honoring consent is essential to navigating relationships and interactions throughout life. This discussion explores the powerful principles of consent and how they can help empower children, foster healthy relationships in families, and reduce the risk of sexual abuse.

3. Teaching Your Child
Healthy Sexuality

Teaching your kids about healthy sexuality is a key way you can reduce the risk of child sexual abuse in your family. Through this discussion, you will find help to consider your own beliefs and family values and how they can influence conversations about sexual development with your kids.

4. Teaching Consent for Teens

Consent is so much more than physical relationships. Practicing and honoring consent is essential to building and receiving respect. Teen consent is Saprea's only class designed specifically for teens and tackles powerful principles like respect, boundaries, ability, and communication.
